LETTER FROM OUR BOARD CHAIR

As I wrap up my term as Chair of the Northeast Georgia Health System Foundation, I find myself in a time of reflection. I have been directly involved with the Foundation since the 1980s, initially in an administrative role and most recently as a volunteer. It has been my good fortune to work with incredible leaders and to have the support of a very philanthropic community.

I am happy to report that the future looks bright, making it easy to transfer the chairmanship to Dr. Pierpont F. Brown, Jr., more fondly known as Pepper. He has been an active leader for the Foundation for years and follows in the footsteps of his godmother, the late Nell Weigand, founding chairman of the Foundation. Additionally, Chris Bray, president and chief development officer, has transitioned well into the position vacated with the retirement of long term president, Nancy Colston.

In the mid-80s our greater Northeast Georgia community endorsed the revitalization of the Foundation's mission based on extensive research. We toured the state, learned from other organizations and concluded that, to be successful, our efforts would need to extend beyond the walls of the hospital. We needed to work to benefit the overall health of the community in ways that might not otherwise happen. Again, the key was the leadership of people like Nell Weigand, Woody Stewart and Jim Moore who, as board chairs, were guided by the administrative leadership of Nancy Colston. That team brought together tremendous community volunteers to serve on the Foundation's board of trustees creating an organization others have sought to emulate.

Millions of dollars have been raised to provide equipment, programs and services for the system but also to fund community projects that enhanced our total community.

From SafeKids of Northeast Georgia to opioid overdose prevention, to support of Good News Clinics and the original funding of the Ronnie Green Heart Center, the Foundation has helped us focus the energy and generosity of the people of Northeast Georgia on key advancements that continue to make us a highly desirable place to live, work and play.

I leave my position as chair, proud of our cumulative accomplishments and excited about what is yet to come. The future is bright and I look forward to watching Chris and his staff take the organization to its next level.

My thanks to all of you who have made the Foundation the strong, vibrant philanthropic organization it is today and for allowing me to play a small part.

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT AND CEO

What a year! I joined Northeast Georgia Health System (NGHS) in 2018, knowing I was coming to a special place but there was no way I could have understood how compassionate and charitable our organization and community are, until now. Since my arrival, I have listened to the passions of donors and volunteers, observed the strength of our boards, admired both senior leadership's vision and the determination of our staff. After sixteen months, I understand the nature of this community and NGHS.

I was lucky to join an organization the community trusts and values. I am thankful to Nancy Colston for her years of leadership that created this great Foundation. It is due to the efforts of our past and present leaders, donors, partners, staff and volunteers that we enjoy award-winning health care close to home. What an amazing legacy we are all working to create for future generations. What we do today really does ensure tomorrow.

As we look toward tomorrow, we remain true to the strong foundation NGHS was built upon: integrity and love of community. Philanthropy, as "the love of humankind," is imperative to fulfilling the NGHS mission of improving the health of the community in all that we do, especially during this period of shifting healthcare landscapes. Our call to action is simple: we must grow, embrace change and explore new frontiers to meet the increased demands of our expanding population.

Perhaps you have noticed some changes NGHS and the Foundation have incorporated as part of our "growth mindset." These changes represent the future – our region's future. As you peruse this Annual Donor Report and reflect upon all we have accomplished together, please consider your role as we continue to grow.

Ultimately, it takes combined effort. I am thankful to the Foundation board, our Lifetime and 2018 Donors for your efforts; your dedication to NGHS demonstrates a love of neighbors across our region and represents all that can be accomplished by working together. I also thank LeTrell for all of her guidance, leadership and counsel over the past year. I could not have asked for a better board chair to introduce me to this fantastic health system and community.

As we continue to move forward as philanthropic partners, I look forward to more good things to come.

Best,

Chris Bray

WITH SINCERE GRATITUDE

“WE’VE SPENT MUCH OF OUR LIVES WORKING FOR NON-PROFITS AND ARE NOW IN RETIREMENT, SO WE DON’T HAVE A TREMENDOUS EXCESS OF INCOME, BUT WE WANTED TO DO WHAT WE COULD AND MAKE A GIFT TO THE FOUNDATION IN GRATITUDE FOR WHAT THIS HOSPITAL MEANS TO US AND TO THIS COMMUNITY.”

Tom Essenburg and his wife, Julie, chose to retire in Braselton to be close to good health care as they aged and to be near their grandchildren.

“I have a little sign that says, ‘Visitors welcome any time. Family make an appointment,’” said Tom.

Julie begins shaking her head before he even finishes. “Right,” she laughs. “He cannot go more than a couple of days without seeing our grandchildren before he starts going through withdrawals.”

Tom was at his daughter and son-in-law’s home in Braselton trimming bushes when he disturbed a hornets’ nest. Within seconds of multiple stings, he knew he was in trouble.

“Billy, our son-in-law, is a paramedic,” said Julie. “He told me Tom needed epinephrine so I had to get him to the hospital quickly. I was at Northeast Georgia Medical Center (NGMC) Braselton in minutes; but by the time I pulled in, Tom was gasping for air. It was horrifying.”

Julie ran through the doors to the emergency waiting room, telling the security guard and triage nurse that her husband was having a reaction to hornet stings. The team immediately began treatment to reverse anaphylaxis, a life-threatening allergic reaction. The condition occurs when a person’s immune system overreacts to an allergen and causes a release of chemicals that cause the body to go into shock. Anaphylactic shock causes the blood pressure to drop and narrows the airway, blocking normal breathing. It can cause the heart to stop beating. The reaction can be caused by any allergen, including foods, latex, medications and insect stings. If left untreated, the condition is often fatal.

“When they moved him from the car, he was dead weight,” said Julie. “As time went by in the waiting room, Billy tried to prepare me for whatever the outcome might be. After about an hour, they let us know that Tom was responding to treatment and doing well. The emergency department physician told us that if treatment had been delayed any longer, Tom would not have made it.”

“Lucky for me, I don’t remember any of that,” said Tom. “I remember the stings and that I was trembling. I remember knowing Julie was taking me to the hospital, but I don’t remember anything after that until after I regained consciousness. I remember Julie’s jokes about my life insurance being paid up.”

The couple now have EpiPens at their home and in their car and are aware of Tom’s increased risk for another life-threatening reaction to an insect sting.

“I had been stung four decades ago,” explained Tom. “But, though I had a reaction, and my lip swelled up, it was not life threatening. Julie and I are so grateful for our hospital. I’ve had hip and knee replacement here and have always been impressed by the kindness of the staff and their medical expertise. We also love to come to the Café for lunch, so the hospital is an important part of our lives. This experience brought home that having these services is more than a convenience.”

HOPE & HEALING

“WE WANTED TO HONOR AND REMEMBER OUR PARENTS IN A MEANINGFUL WAY.”

Years ago, when the news broke of a new hospital coming to Braselton, Paul Maney would load up his car with people and drive them to educational luncheons at NGMC Gainesville to learn more about plans for Northeast Georgia Health System (NGHS) and the NGHS Foundation. Paul has been involved with the health system for decades and became a champion for the Braselton hospital. He currently serves on the NGHS Board and served on the Braselton trustee sub-committee that oversaw construction of NGMC Braselton and ensured its successful completion. Paul was instrumental in the Rotary Club of Braselton’s decision to make a signature gift to the Foundation to name the Rotary Flag Plaza at NGMC Braselton. It was the first civic club to make a signature gift in the Foundation’s history.

“A hospital brings so much to a community,” said Paul. “It’s an obvious economic engine, and through the Medical Center Auxiliary and the Foundation, it helps the community have avenues to give of themselves and strengthen the community. And of course, most importantly, it saves lives and improves the health of our neighbors.”

Paul and his wife, Glenna, recently made a signature gift to the NGHS Foundation to name an Emergency Department treatment room at NGMC Braselton in honor of Glenna’s 99 year-old mother, Mrs. Edith, and in memory of Glenna’s father and Paul’s parents.

“It was our privilege to support the services of the Emergency Department at NGMC Braselton,” said Paul. “Many members of our community are alive and thriving today – people who would not be with us – if not for access to excellent emergency care so close to home.”

“The Foundation helped us identify an important avenue for giving and celebrating our parents. My mother was able to attend the reception and see her name on the plaque outside the treatment room. I know she was delighted and that my father would have been too. Paul’s parents were very generous, loving people, and we are so grateful we are able to remember them with this gift.”

VOLUNTEERING FROM THE HEART

Maybe it was the name Camp Braveheart that drew Tessa Kamat to first consider becoming a volunteer at Hospice of Northeast Georgia Medical Center's (NGMC) grief support camp for children. Tessa and her husband, Bash, had lost their young son, Aiden, to a heart defect in 2012. In gratitude for the help Hospice had given her family, Tessa asked Karla Brookerson-Owens, licensed social worker with Hospice of NGMC, how she could get involved. Tessa is a teacher and has worked with both elementary and middle school students, so Karla knew she had a heart for children and told her about Camp Braveheart.

"Children's Healthcare of Atlanta (CHOA) has a camp with the same name for children with heart defects," said Tessa. "We had learned about it before we knew how serious the impacts of Aiden's heart condition would be on his life. I first heard that name at a time when we could hope that someday Aiden would be one of the campers. I am sure when I heard Camp Braveheart the name called to me."

Camp Braveheart is held each summer: one week in June for Kindergarten through 5th graders and a week in July for 6th through 8th graders. The event, held at Walter's Barn in north Hall County, is a day camp for children who have lost a close friend or family member. The camp is provided at no charge to campers thanks to the generosity of donors through the Foundation. The camp is designed to help children and youth learn to cope with the complicated emotions that arise from the death of a loved one.

"Losing someone you love is overwhelming even for adults," said Tessa. "We think children are resilient – and they are – but they also can be completely disoriented by the heavy emotions they feel but don't understand. During the week, as emotions come up, the program includes very organic ways for children to identify their feelings and ways to work through them. You can almost see the healing begin. It's like watching a flower open up as the children meet people like themselves who are also dealing with a loss. They know they are not alone."

At Camp Braveheart, children participate in one-on-one and group activities including art therapy, journaling, teambuilding and play.

Facilitated by a team of licensed social workers, therapists and trained volunteers, the camp creates a safe place for children to talk about their pain, fears and frustration and to interact with others who have had similar losses. Throughout the week, children are given opportunities to remember their loved ones, talk about death and to express intense emotions in creative ways. Children fill memory boxes with things that remind them of their loved ones, express feelings through playing drums and other instruments and also have what Tessa calls "hard core fun."

"We have a blast," she laughs. "Zoo-to-You brings animals. We play laser tag. We walk to the creek. We have battles with water guns. We've had water slides and write songs together. The camp also has structured time with families so that parents and grandparents can participate in the process, and the food for the camp is always delicious. Volunteers do the food prep, and someone brings ice cream and fresh fruit. There are times that are really sad – and that's okay – but we also have a lot of fun."

A ribbon ceremony, where children write the names of their loved one on a ribbon and families tie the ribbons around a tree, has become an important tradition at the camp.

"Seeing the courage of these children is inspiring," Tessa says. "Once, during circle time, one of the children looked up at me and asked, 'do you have a person?' The question was so kind and sincere. I will always be connected to these people: the children, the counselors, the other volunteers."

GIVING SAVES LIVES

"I WENT FROM
OF EXPECTING MY SON TO THE FEAR OF KNOWING THEY

SARA SCHNEIDER HAD BEEN IN LABOR FOR 26 HOURS. THOUGH THE LABOR HAD BEEN LONG, THE DELIVERY PROCESS – LIKE THE PREGNANCY FOR THE LAST 37 WEEKS – HAD PROGRESSED AS EXPECTED. SUDDENLY, THE BABY’S HEART RATE DROPPED. IT WAS THEN THAT THE STAFF RUSHED SARA’S MOTHER AND HUSBAND, ZACH, FROM THE ROOM.

“They said they were preparing Sara for an emergency C-section and hurried us out of the room,” said Zach. “I went from the excitement of expecting my son to the fear of knowing they were in real trouble.”

In just nine minutes, the medical team had recognized the baby’s distress and begun Sara’s C-section.

“I had an epidural and they gave me morphine, but I could hear them talking,” said Sara. “I knew my baby had no heartbeat, and was terrified. They worked on Sawyer for 20 minutes straight. Each time they tried something to save my son, I would think, ‘Is that the last thing they can try? Have they done everything they can?’ But they just kept working on him. They didn’t give up. I looked at the nurse and asked her to pray with me.”

As they rushed Sawyer to the neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) Sara knew that her son had been without oxygen for nearly 20 minutes. The doctor asked Sara if she wanted to go see her baby. So only 45 minutes after her C-section, the team helped Sara into a wheel chair and took her to see Sawyer.

“They warned me how bad the damage could be,” she says. “Going that long without oxygen can cause serious consequences. They said that even if Sawyer did live, we might be facing tough decisions around removing life support later.”

Sawyer needed a higher level of care and was transported to Emory University Hospital. Knowing Zach, a Deputy Sheriff, could ride in the ambulance with their son comforted Sara. At 4:08 a.m., Zach texted her a photo of Sawyer in the NICU at Emory.

“That photo was the most beautiful thing,” she exclaims. “He was pink! My baby, who had been blue when he was born, was a beautiful shade of pink.”

For 18 days, Sawyer stayed in Emory’s NICU. He’d had no suck, swallow or gag reflex when he arrived. When his kidneys began to fail, the team at Emory cooled him for 72 hours. As they warmed him, he could suck and swallow. On Sara’s 22nd birthday, the couple was headed out to dinner in Atlanta when she heard her son’s voice for the first time. “It wasn’t really a cry,” she says, “maybe more of a grunt, but it was a wonderful birthday gift.”

On December 23, the couple headed home with their first-born child.

“Having the services and equipment we need locally gives babies like Sawyer a chance at life they simply would not have otherwise,” says Megan A. Cargile BSN, Nurse Manager, Labor/Delivery/Recovery/ Postpartum & NICU, Braselton. “Thanks to support from our community through the NGHS Foundation, infants in our NICU benefit from technology that supports the lives of premature babies and those born with difficulties similar to Sawyer’s.”

Giraffe Incubators, made possible in Braselton through donations to the NGHS Foundation, are state-of-the-art infant beds which help minimize a baby’s temperature swings and allow for easy x-ray access if needed. The beds create a healing environment for infants in distress.

As Sara and Zach prepared to deliver their second child, they planned ahead for a C-section. However, at 36 weeks, Sara went into labor. In the delivery room, the nurses took special care with Sara, knowing her earlier experience and the trauma of Sawyer’s birth.

“When I was pushing, I had to close my eyes,” Sara says. “I guess I just couldn’t see this happen again. Soon, I heard my baby cry and the doctor told me to open my eyes. That cry was a beautiful sound and when I opened my eyes, I saw my beautiful pink son, Dawson. I was so glad to hear him cry and to see him a healthy color, but I could tell the nurses and physician were concerned. They told me that he had swallowed amniotic fluid and took him immediately to the NICU.”

In the NICU, they learned that one of Dawson’s tiny lungs had collapsed. Non-invasive measures were ineffective, so the NICU team inserted a chest tube. Within a week, Dawson was home with his mom and dad and older brother, Sawyer. Today the brothers are both doing well, surpassing milestones for their ages, active and healthy.

Our community’s support meant that both of our babies had access to the care they needed when they needed it most. We feel tremendously blessed.”

“THERE ARE NO WORDS TO EXPRESS HOW GRATEFUL WE ARE FOR DR. CASTILLO, DR BARRETT, BRANDY WILLIAMS, ROBIN BAGBY AND THE REST OF THE TEAM AT NGMC BRASELTON WHO CARED FOR OUR SONS,” SAYS SARA, “AND WE ARE GRATEFUL TO EVERYONE WHO SUPPORTS THE NGHS FOUNDATION AS WELL.”

27TH ANNUAL MEDICAL CENTER OPEN SHATTERS RECORD

The community came together in a big way to support the Medical Center Open, with sponsors, volunteers and golfers raising a record-shattering $320,000. This amazing effort benefits the purchase of a Mobile Simulation Unit, which will improve health care in the entire Northeast Georgia region, taking state-of-the-art training to clinical professionals where they live and work.

Congratulations and many thanks to tournament co-chairs Jeff Terry, MD, and Karen Baston, as well as the volunteer committee members who worked tirelessly for months to ensure the tournament's success.

Special thanks to Premier Sponsor Bank of America Merrill Lynch and 19th Hole Reception Sponsor McGarity's Business Products & HON. It is because of their support that 100 percent of the tournament proceeds go to benefit the purchase of the Mobile Simulation Unit.

A highlight of the day came when Gail Bowen, who has served on the Open's committee since its inception, was awarded the inaugural Gail Bowen Spirit of Volunteerism Award. Each year going forward, this award will be given to the tournament volunteer who exhibits a level of passion and commitment that rises above expectations, as Gail has done for so many years.

Another exciting moment of game day came when a helicopter hovered overhead for the "ball drop", which determined the winner of the annual raffle.

The Northeast Georgia Health System Foundation (NGHS) is excited to support the purchase of a Mobile Simulation Unit for training of NGHS employees at all locations throughout the 18-county service region. This unit will also enhance opportunities to partner with physician offices, rural medical facilities, schools, public safety departments and Graduate Medical Education, creating opportunities for advanced training capability for others.
